To whom it may concern

I have been involved with Masterkabin on a number of school projects where there has been a need for additional classroom accommodation within a very short period of time. Anthony O'Donovan has always been very helpful at the design stages of the project and gave plenty of useful information on the construction and assembly of modular buildings. Generally we found that the steel modular buildings were best suited to our clients needs. Masterkabin also proved to be very competitive on price, on a number of occasions they have won contracts following a fairly onerous tender process via eTenders.ie.

On all of the projects I have been involved in, I have found the construction and assembly process to be very well organised, particularly on the day of the off-loading and assembly of a modular building – it's almost a military-like operation and is worth getting up early for (it usually starts very early!). While the whole process is quite fast, health and safety is not compromised in any way and to date, where I have acted PSDP on projects involving Masterkabin, the record remains at 100%.

It is also worth noting that there seems to be genuine 'can do' attitude amongst the staff at Masterkabin, I have been known to contact Anthony with a last minute change, either as a result of a client request, or my own design 'tweaking' and even with production of the modular units already in progress at the factory, Anthony has been able to facilitate what sometimes could be considered as a bit of an ask, so the tag line 'we can accommodate you' is certainly appropriate.
